FEATURING:

Dr. Beth McAvey

Dr. Beth McAvey is a board certified reproductive endocrinologist and infertility specialist and treats patients at RMA of New York's Westside and Garden City offices. She will explore the topic of fertility preservation through oocyte cryopreservation and will be joined by a panel of experts to discuss the treatment process and the powerful option that egg freezing allows. The presentation will cover the medical and practical aspects of freezing eggs and will allow for attendees to ask individual questions in a casual, comfortable setting.

An IVF coordinator and financial specialist will be present to answer questions, and a former patient will share her experience.
